PHILADELPHIA: Carol A. Mager, one of Pennsylvania’s leading employment law and class action litigators, has joined Console Law Office, LLC as “Of Counsel.” Ms. Mager, who has 35 years of experience representing clients in employment discrimination, civil rights, ERISA and complex commercial class actions will focus on individual and class employment and ERISA cases.

“I am excited to join Console Law Offices,” said Ms. Mager. “Steve Console and his colleagues and I have worked together for the past ten years as plaintiffs’ co-counsel in sex, race, and age class actions. We have a track record of successful collaboration. This is a great opportunity for me to work with a dynamic team of talented lawyers who are proven, successful litigators. Console Law has a well deserved reputation as one of Pennsylvania’s premier firms for clients looking for justice in matters of employment discrimination and civil rights.”

During the first nineteen years in her legal career, Ms. Mager litigated and provided labor and employment advice to corporations and institutions, first with Montgomery McCracken where she became a partner and vice chair of the labor and employment department and subsequently as a partner and co-chair of the employment group at Ballard Spahr. Since 1992 she has been a principal in female owned firms representing primarily individuals and classes in employment discrimination, civil rights, ERISA and complex litigation.
